We, the Class of 1980, dedicate our yearbook to Mrs. Casey. For three years she's been helpful and understanding. She's always there during or after school, and she always has an explanation that makes the impossible to understand, easy.

Mrs. Casey is always patient, and we realize that teaching our lab is no easy task. If something's not on the verge of explosion, someone is.

We only hope your upcoming students appreciate you as much as we do.

Ave atque vale, Mrs. Casey.

RESUME

Razors pain you:
Rivers are damp:
Acids stain you:
And drugs cause
cramp:
Guns aren't lawful:
Nooses give:
Gas smells awful:
You might as well
live.

I've watchted the man grow older through the years
I've seen the space in his eyes grow deeper
I've listened to her silence and his wisdom there's love checkmate here.

-Dart

Scheming and dreaming,
Trying to find that pot of gold.
Driving but still not arriving
I hope I find it before I get old.

If you love something
Set it free.
If it comes back to you
it is yours;
if it doesn't,
it never was.

Love wasn't put in the heart to stay.
Love isn't love
'till you give it away.

You ask me if
I need
Him?
Well, does the river need the water to get along?

Oh seas, why do you roar? Time is near,
Lord I'm scared. The people, they just don't care, but where they be, Lord be there.
Why are there questions, why not just answers?
Help us see Your everywhere, Work through me
Lord, help me show them of Your love, of Your care.
Oh Lord, at Thy feet I lay, help them all Lord I pray.

Last Will and Testament

We, the Class of Nineteen Hundred and Eighty-One, hereby bequeath the following to our beloved faculty members:

ARTICLE I

Mrs. Manning: a round trip to Des Moines, Iowa;
Mrs. Casey: our seal of approval;
Ms. Brien: a pair of chicken chests and Peggy Lawton oatmeal cookies;
Mrs. Henry: a bottomless cup of tea and an unlimited supply of muffins;
Mrs. Snell: some funny math jokes and the leaning tower of tetrahedrons;
Mrs. Cobban: ear plugs and a bionic whistle;
Mrs. James: a stable senior class, and much love and thanks;
Mrs. Hayes: a class that gets 800's on their SAT's;
Mrs. Poole: the ground over Walt Whitman to walk on;
Mrs. Block: pencils that don't get stolen every day;
Mrs. Johnston: Claude Monet; and seniors who take art;
Mrs. Alix: 1954 Cabernet of Lafitte Rothschilds;
Mrs. Purdy: footlights;
Ms. Solomon: Rudolf Nureyev and Mikhail Baryshnikov;
Tony: a clean Senior room and classes that can set up for their own dances;
Mr. Johnston: a senior class that takes school seriously.

ARTICLE II

We leave the following to the underclassmen:
To the eleventh grade we leave: a black closet with new meaning;
Tenth: a new batch of seniors to send to the store;
Ninth: straightjackets;
Eighth: a Referee;
Seventh: much love, affection and wishes for success in the future.

ARTICLE III

I, Lisa, leave gratefully, before they tell me I can't;
I, Helen, leave all my "undone deeds" for Kerry to complete;
I, Susan, leave "all my unfinished work and Goo Fibb;"
I, Jean, leave my cowboy boots and love to my little sisters, Mary, Michelle and Lee;
I, Sandy, leave "That's not fair" echoing through the halls;
I, Joan, leave all my rotten lunches and love to little sisters;
I, Heather, leave happily, all my best wishes and memories to the underclassmen and staff;
I, Margaret, leave a couple of Tylenol for those migraine headaches;
I, Nancy, leave no sign that I was ever here;
I, Adrienne, leave happily, all my frustrations;
I, Janine, leave student government and collecting money.

Love,
The Class of 1981

Headmaster's Letter

To the Graduating Class of 1981:

Let me take this opportunity to congratulate you on completing twelve or more years of formal education. At the same time let me explode a few myths.

In the first place, high school and college do not represent the end of your education. The learning process is the life process. It continues forever.

Secondly, it is increasingly apparent that leadership skills acquired in high school and college are most important for the future. Our society is moving in the direction of individual participation. Tremendous leadership abilities will be required for the future. Leadership must be given freely for business, the family, the community, nation and the world. You have been given much and for that reason more is expected.

Sincerely,

Robert L. Johnston

Prophecy May 1991

May, nineteen-hundred and eighty one, eleven inquisitive and determined young women set out to find the perfect careers which would hold their interest for many years to come.

We are now ten years older and wiser. Since we have all become so successful in our sophisticated and lucrative situations, we were able to celebrate our tenth reunion on a cruise to St. Tropez.

Janine, being the ship's doctor, (with three gorgeous body and no mind male nurses) was there to greet every one of us with a hug and directions to our cabins.

Jean and Margaret were just about the last ones to arrive on board because they had to wait for a cab, neither one having a license.

"Where's Adrienne and Nancy?", asked Margaret.

"Room 206, the Unicorn deck. It's right across from Lisa and Helen's cabin, 205", answered Janine.

"No, Adrienne, you can't decorate the room".

"But, Nancy . . . "

"Did you see how cute Mike is?"

"But Nancy . . . "

"The way his cute little legs are so hairy and . . . "

"Nancy".

"Adrienne, be quiet. You never let me finish a sentence."

"Lisa, How's the world of Barbizon?"

"Pretty good. Now I'm the director of all the models. We're going to Paris for a fashion show in the spring."

"You look beautiful. I love your dress".

"Thanks. It's my mother's."

"Isn't that Susan, the world reknowned flower designer? It looks like she finally caught up with Barry."

"So, Susan, what have you been doing for the past ten years?"

"Nothing much, just the flowers for the 1985 and the 1989 Inaugural Ball."

"Why it's Joan! What do you know."

"Hi guys. What's up?"

"We heard that you were promoted to head nurse at Boston City. Do you still have that apartment overlooking the skyline?"

"Helen and Muffins! How've you been?"

"Fine, business has been great. There's so many people in my accounting firm now that I only have to go into the office once a week, so I can spend more time tending bar at California."

"Marge, how's the new office in Europe working out?"

"Really well. My company, Margaret Business Corp., is doing find everywhere. I finally learned how to rollerskate last week. I bought a new rink in San Francisco."

"Sandy, How've you been? We heard about your miracle cure for hayfever that you discovered while working at Mass. General."

"It was nothing. You know what I'm saying."

"Well, Sandy, like we told you in school, you're not stupid. Tell us, do you still babysit on the side?"

"Jean, where have you been? We were all supposed to meet here forty-five minutes ago."

"Sorry, I got sidetracked on the way. I had to throw some stuff on the couch to make myself feel at home, and a guy with a nice nose and moustache just had to find out about the French Revolution."

"Heather, are you enjoying being a social worker? You're still so quiet."

"Yes. It's very rewarding."

"I saw in the newspaper the other day, "Family saved from a separation due to the fabulous social work of Heather".

"Where is Nancy? She is so slow!"

"Now, Adrienne . . . "

"Look, there's someone swimming around the pool in a wet suit."

"Here I am! It's me, Nancy!"

"What are you doing, swimming around in a wet suit?"

"Not much, just checking the chemical level of the pool."

After three weeks of being together constantly, it was just like it used to be, and it was very difficult to say goodbye – again.
